Preparing the Tincture for Your Cannabis Candy

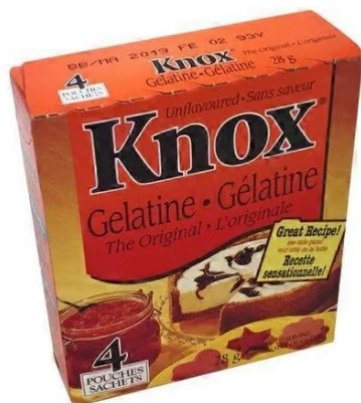

Cannabis tincture is produced using a distillation process and contains concentrated cannabinoids and other therapeutic molecules found in the marijuana plant. It requires breaking up the decarboxylated dried buds and plant materials and submerging them in a solvent. Usually, high-proof alcohol is the chemical mostly used to remove all the precious THC and other cannabinoids from the plant.

The resulting highly potent product is a concentrated, liquid cannabis solution.

It's easiest to just purchase high-quality tinctures through a local dispensary or at a trusted online source. Tinctures and most marijuana product concentrates have become relatively cheap since cannabis was legalized in Canada. Once you have your cannabis tincture follow the recipe below.
